

vitJournals Online Manuscript Submission System

Our Mission:

Our goal is to reduce the work-load of busy editors and to provide an easy to use manuscript submission process that editors, authors and reviews will be happy to use.

The Best Bits:

Fast, reliable and extremely easy to use

Decreases editorial workload significantly

Enhances journal potential

More efficient publication process

Reduce time from submission to editorial decision

Quick and easy to use for authors and reviewers

What is vitJournals?

vitJournals is reliable and easy to use manuscript submission software developed for scholarly journals.

Who Are We?

A range of dynamic professionals whose backgrounds include: science, humanities, editorial, business management, information technology and web development, and marketing.

Key Features:

- Management of manuscripts from submission to editorial decision
- User configurable software enabling you to adapt the software to your processes
- Ability to monitor all stages of review
- User-specific task "to-do" lists
- Customizable letters for author and reviewer correspondence
- Automation of tasks such as referee reminders
- Efficient management of the peer-review process
- Log of all jobs done for each submission
- Author, editor and reviewer feedback program
- Author/reviewer tracking history
- Provides reports and statistics on a variety of aspects such as: submission, acceptance, and rejection numbers; reviewer statistics etc.
- Access to a dynamic and professional development team
- Constant evaluation and improvement of the vitJournals system in order to continue to address the needs of the client
- Coming soon: User interface available in Spanish

vitJournals Online Manuscript Submission System

vitJournals Feedback

"Very easy [to use]. Nice, simple and friendly design."

"It has been a positive experience... new submission system makes the submission process quick and easy."

"Thank you for making the publication process such a smooth journey."

What Makes vitJournals Different From The Rest?

The Unique Selling Points of this product are its extreme ease of use and particularly competitive price. vitJournals is an intuitive management system which will reduce time-to-publishing of a scholarly article thus maximizing the journal's potential. The submission process is quick and easy, ensuring author satisfaction and thus increasing the profile of the journal among its clients.

Adaptation of the vitJournals process will reduce costs associated with non-digital management methods and, more importantly, considerably reduce the time previously needed to complete the tasks from submission to author decision. These savings alone will more than pay for vitJournals within the short term.

In the light of the current economic climate, we offer vitJournals at a very competitive price. E-mail us now (info@vitjournals.com) for a personalized quotation.

For further inquiries, please contact:

Helena O'Leary (English language)/Jon López (Spanish language)

E-mail: info@vitjournals.com

Or view our webpage at: www.vitjournals.com